Emily's Analysis

Fair Grounds Race 7

Analysis by Emily Gullikson

#1 GIVEMEASECOND will be tested with the distance change today though with price compensation with that move. With the distance change they will be tested though appears some intent with the change and form cycle pattern. Number wise they ran the highest figure with their debut showing that number was no fluke with the 12/21 recorded effort - both numbers in line with #2 CAUSEWAY BENNY, the projected favorite.

#6 RAZOR CREST is still tested for class though should hold value given the field. As far as their races this season the class drop provided the much needed confidence and following the dominant B+ win stepped up in class. They have held their form this season since taking on winners pairing B- OptixGRADE including the 2/20 effort with the TROUBLES+ and SAVED MOVE behind the open length pacesetting chalk winner, Kenmore West.
