Emily's Analysis

Hawthorne Race 1

Post Time 2:38 PM CST

Analysis by Emily Gullikson

#2 LA REYNITA holds the class edge and perhaps even the pace edge of the E. Rodriguez pair in the opener. Arguably, LA REYNITA prefers turf as their ideal surface, though capable on the main track under the right conditions. She showed that last season breaking her maiden over this course and distance with a front end score back in August and has continued to hold her form following with speed figures on par for this race.

#3 KEEN GAL will be tested with the rise in class taking on winners for the first time. She wheels right back following the maiden score opening day, a race which should add confidence and fitness going forward and translate as quickly as back in this spot.

Coming back in 2026, there is plenty of upside for #4 CODE OF CONDUCT though could be one who benefits from a start off the layoff – similar to last year a solid effort on debut though improved number wise with racing. #1 PEACOCK ROAD makes a lateral translation in terms of class to this circuit. She has shown surface versatility, however their higher recorded speed figures, the numbers on par, recorded on turf/synth thus far.

#3 EUCLID AVENUE wheels right back for this race and stretching out at the same time could hold a pace advantage on the front end. This start marks the second of the layoff and current form cycle to suggest intent and ability to return to a competitive effort.

The tactical and fitness advantage EUCLID AVENUE brings in over #1 ELECTRIC CHARGE could be the difference maker in this case. While ELECTRIC CHARGE overall fits as an individual, they must come with that top effort fresh, something they have struggled with in prior layoff returns. #2 CONTRABANDISTA also fiving up recency returning from the layoff and something to consider in terms of value overall. The break from October 2025 into today’s race is warranted following a long campaign – one to get a look at in the paddock.

#4 REGIMENTAL should benefit from the conditioning wheeling back in this spot. While they have the fitness on their side and trending hot barn, their off-the-pace runstyle could still be up against it in today’s race shape.

Analysis by Emily Gullikson

A competitive race and tricky one with the surface/distance a factor in handicapping this group. That includes separating the L. Rivelli pair, where #2 SMOKED could present the edge on the main track whereas #3 SPINNING GLORY had the lone main track Hawthorne start from last April (an effort which fits, to be fair) though before and after has been campaigned exclusively on the turf/synth to suggest some alternative surface intent.

While both L. Rivelli runners present tactical speed, SMOKED could present the controlling speed in this case and gate-to-wire threat.

#4 BELLA CRUELLA also makes the surface switch and has some tactical speed in her own right. She will be tested for that to not only translate to the dirt, but also out of the gate as she can often break a step slog. #5 LIT MISS HAT TRICK also with some tactical speed and races on her best day to respect as a contender. Returning from the layoff and first start of the season, she has that hurdle and one to look for additional clues from the paddock visuals and tote board activity.

#1 AL MUSTANEERA also has shown some gate issues in the two starts though made up for it though ability and clear placement by the connections. That looks to carry here as she takes on winners, racing on this circuit while remaining protected. Distance wise the 5.5 looked on the shorter side for her visually from the debut at BTP however still recorded a B OptixGRADE and following the time away returned in March at the 5.5f distance with the B+ MSW score at MVR.

Hawthorne Race 4

Analysis by Emily Gullikson

#5 D'ARGONAUT wheels back with some upside in this second start of the season. It was reasonable to suggest the opening day start was a prep given the higher MCL level then where she was placed last season and with stablemate and eventual winner Keen Gal in the field, more fancied on the two. This should be the time and place for D'ARGONAUT on the quick turnaround conditioning and class drop, just requires not only a return to a top effort but also trip with the 5f distance of the race. The timing and placement for D'ARGONAUT, a contrast to stablemate #1 ATRAXA coming off the 178-day layoff.

The distance change also noted for #2 I'M HUNGOVER one who outside of her 5f debut sprinting on the turf last June, has been exclusively racing at the route distance and makes that significant cut back here with the recency and class edge looking to carry, noting many and consistent speed figures on par. The distance is a subtle change for #4 TOUR DE' PORT returning from the layoff while noting she is at the right level for her abilities.

A lot of attention will likely land on #3 NIGHT ROSE for the connections, capable connections worthy of respect and to get the job done though in terms of published works this is not a typical series of drills and something to factor with projected odds – additional clues in the paddock should be key to further upgrade/downgrade them as the lone FTS in the group.

Hawthorne Race 5

#1 BONIFIED CRAZY drops to the lowest level of their career, a change which should be welcome and allow their best chance to compete. Class and the long layoff which followed the two juvenile starts was notable coming back this season at the FG. They had a tough task first time around two turns coming back from the 424-day layoff in February and did not appear to NO_HANDLE the off track and poor WEATHER conditions on 3/8.

In terms of speed figures, both #3 STORMY ATTACK and #5 STORM BACK have the highest recorded in this field, however those numbers were posted on the turf, and their main track numbers lack the same edge. #4 GRAY MIKE has the most consistent numbers and perhaps this spot allows their best chance to break through with that belated maiden score though still has the 0-for-29 career record, including races under similar conditions falling short without excuse of a winning effort.

#2 KUZ I CAN MAN returns from the layoff and for the new connections and perhaps the time to show up as a "new horse" all around. That is still a lot of guess work based on the series of races to date including a pattern of gate/SLOG issues which going the shorter 5f distance can be tougher to overcome and showing just the long return work on April 12th to get race ready.

Hawthorne Race 6

Post Time 5:18 PM CST

Analysis by Emily Gullikson

#5 TIZ CHINA figures the right horse as the favorite and one to beat. She returns to Hawthorne and shorter sprint distance where she ad competitive last season at a higher condition, noting the drop coming back around in claiming company. In terms of current form, she was coming back with the allowance win in the MVR mud back in January, a top (REGRESS) effort on the day and likely that quick (less than 30 day return) return playing a factor in the outcome of the 2/12 TP start. TIZ CHINA draws well for today's race shape outside with tactical speed to allow J. Loveberry options to work a winning trip.

#2 FONDRE also shows up here and from the recent TP meet holding her own in open claiming company. Races with a higher par than today's event. Today's par even lower than her competitive races from last summer running over conventional dirt on the main track at MNR/BTP those efforts fitting here in terms of class and speed to compete.

In terms of the D. Dizeo pair returning from layoffs, giving the edge to #3 MARY MOONGLOW over #1 SHARP ATTACK with the post position shift for the two as well as keying off the races to date at Hawthorne with MARY MOONGLOW running competitively under slightly higher conditions on the main track.

#4 BOYCE'S BANDITA comes in a little light overall as a contender though a good spot to return where she can get a start and nearly race protected as an IL-bred opting for the higher $20k tag in this spot.

Hawthorne Race 7

Post Time 5:48 PM CST

Analysis by Emily Gullikson

In the finale, taking a stab while making a longshot case for #6 LAVENDER EARL. They have fired off the layoff in the past and has been competitive under similar conditions to today's race. Most of their career has been at the longer distances, while also a higher level of competition, something noted with the overall race record. The connections could have been running at the higher level (and higher odds) to pick up checks and taking the class drop late in the 2025 season while looking for the first win since spring 2022.

#2 VIA DEL CORSO should draw a fair share of public attention given the connections and closing out the Hawthorne season with a near miss together at the wire with #3 OFF TO THE RACES – a FLOW aided trip. VIA DEL CORSO raced that day (10/30) as the only 3yo in against older, holding their own then and should similarly coming back in the first start as a 4yo.

Age with time off should be factored with #4 LATIN CASINO one with plenty of races in their career to fit as a contender. Their most recent win was off the layoff returning las September, however had a pace advantage (Plot),HOT barn in addition to a slightly lower race par/purse that day than how this race comes together.

#5 JET FLIGHT could require a race while returning from the layoff and in at today's shorter 5.5f distance. Outside of those factors, they fit on class and speed and know how to win races with one of the most consistent pairing of horse and rider with L. Colon back aboard.

Ron's Picks

Hawthorne Race 1

Post Time 2:38 PM CST

Analysis by Ron Uchman

2 La Reynita - 7/5 | 1 Peacock Road - 5/2 | 3 Keen Gal - 7/2

2-LA REYNITA, at least on paper, looks best by far. She races for the current top barn, she has been racing and racing well down in Louisiana (where the alligators grow so mean lol), and she appears to be the most consistent speed. Three drills since her last start should ensure current fitness. Can outlast the rest. 1-PEACOCK ROAD might be a little harder to gauge. She has also been racing consistently but most of her recent races were on synthetic. But she is the best closer in this short field and it's possible the other three will be fighting for the lead. 3-KEEN GAL, stablemate of top choice, graduated on opening day. She could be as quick as top choice and her rider is strong on the front end.

Hawthorne Race 2

Post Time 3:12 PM CST

Analysis by Ron Uchman

3 Euclid Avenue - 7/2 | 4 Regimental - 4/1 | 1 Electric Charge - 7/5

3-EUCLID AVENUE can awaken with the drop in class and the recent race behind him. He was good here last year and could return to form with the move back to Hawthorne, though he will be racing for different connections. 4-REGIMENTAL needs to show far more than he did in last but he's another who should move up with the benefit of the recent trip. His barn and rider are atop the standings. Could add to their success with this one. 1-ELECTRIC CHARGE ended 2025 on a winning note. He has had a couple decent drills coming into his first start of the year but fitness might be questionable.

Hawthorne Race 3

Post Time 3:45 PM CST

Analysis by Ron Uchman

1 Al Mustaneera - 4/1 | 3 Spinning Glory - 2/1 | 2 Smoked - 7/2

Not sure what to make of 1-AL MUSTANEERA. She just missed in her career debut but then came back to dominate the second field she faced while making her first start of 2026. However, she was a $500,000 purchase and she races for top-notch connections and it seems a bit strange that she isn't racing on a major circuit. But won't argue with success. 3-SPINNING GLORY seems most likely. She does own good speed and has had two good races and a strong local drill so far this year. She raced primarily on turf but did finish second in her lone dirt try. 2-SMOKED is the quickest of these but this teammate of Spinning Glory has had only one workout in 2026. Think she'll grab the early lead but don't know how long she'll stay there.

Hawthorne Race 4

Post Time 4:16 PM CST

Analysis by Ron Uchman

3 Night Rose - 2/1 | 2 I'm Hungover - 5/2 | 5 D' Argonaut - 7/2

Not in love with any in here but have to go with 3-NIGHT ROSE. Her barn does well with first timers, she has had plenty of drills getting ready, and none of her rivals have ever been really competitive. 2-I'M HUNGOVER drops and turns back in distance. She sprinted only once in her 10 races and that was her debut on turf versus maiden specials. She just might be far more effective at this level on the main track. 5-D' ARGONAUT was never competitive in her first local start of the year but she was in too deep. Drops to a better level. However, she had a couple races at this level in the past and failed to impress. Maybe this year.

Hawthorne Race 5

Post Time 4:47 PM CST

Analysis by Ron Uchman

1 Bonified Crazy - 3/1 | 2 Kuz I Can Man - 6/1 | 4 Gray Mike - 5/2 | 5 Storm Back - 2/1

1-BONIFIED CRAZY never finished closer than 14 lengths back but he's never been in this easy. Has to be better at this level, doesn't he? 2-KUZ I CAN MAN is another trounced in every race but his last race was his best race. Think he'll show far more for his new barn. Guessing 4-GRAY MIKE will need a race and he is making his 30th start as a maiden but he did finish in the money in three of his last four starts. 5-STORM BACK is probably better going long on the lawn but recent turn-up race at Oaklawn could give him an edge.

Hawthorne Race 6

Post Time 5:18 PM CST

Analysis by Ron Uchman

5 Tiz China - 6/5 | 1 Sharp Attack - 7/2 | 3 Mary Moonglow - 9/2

5-TIZ CHINA takes a big drop in class. This filly was good here at two. She is plenty quick but might not be first from the gate. Worked a bullet recently. She could be ready for these. 1-SHARP ATTACK has been working very well coming into her first start of the year. She's another pretty quick from the gate but is also comfortable just tracking the early pace. 3-MARY MOONGLOW might be first from the gate. She's also been training well and, in addition, gets the current leading rider back in her irons.

Hawthorne Race 7

Post Time 5:48 PM CST

Analysis by Ron Uchman

5 Jet Flight - 5/2 | 4 Latin Casino - 9/5 | 2 Via Del Corso - 4/1

Going to give 5-JET FLIGHT edge. Like most in here he has had only limited drills but he was a very consistent competitor racing at or near this level last year and he could show even more in this barn. Not sure one slow three-furlong drill will have 4-LATIN CASINO fit but he is likely the quickest of these and at this short-sprint distance, he could be fit enough to last. 2-VIA DEL CORSO just missed in his final start of 2025 after dueling for the lead. His first few works of 2026 weren't much but he turned up the lead in last. It was especially impressive because he worked out of the gate. He might be overlooked in this spot. Don't take him lightly.
